BARN OWL

SCIENTIFIC PROCESS PART 2 – The Germ Theory

Robert F Kennedy Jr., Secretary of Health and Human Services, does not believe germs cause infectious disease.

He believes in an old idea called the Miasma Theory. Miasma means "bad air." In medieval times people believed the odor rising off of dead and decomposing things would bring illness. People believed that disease appeared on its own. Those who believed in miasma worked to improve sanitation in the cities. Because this lowered the amount of disease, they thought the theory was correct.

In the 1680s, a cloth seller and amateur scientist, Antonie van Leeuwenhoek, saw tiny living things in his microscope. He called them "animalcules," His discovery led to more studies of these organisms. In 1668 Francesco Redi proved that maggots did not appear on meat by themselves. Life did not just appear out of nowhere. Then in the 1850s, Louis Pasteur and Robert Koch created the germ theory of disease.

Pasteur proved that liquid broth did not spoil when it was sterilized but spoiled when it was exposed to outside air. Spoiling was due to bacteria from the air. Pasteur also created a way to remove bacteria from milk. The process is called Pasteurization, and is still used today. Koch showed that specific germs caused specific diseases. He proved how germs were spread from person to person or from dirty objects. Once in the body, germs multiplied and caused illness.

In that age of discovery, thousands of scientists, trained and amateur, studied life. They shared new ideas and discoveries. Some studied illness in animals like silk worms or sheep. Others studied people.
They came up with new theories and tests to prove them.
As scientists learned more about biology, germ theory became the best explanation for infectious disease.

Kennedy also uses "Miasma Theory" to mean strengthening the immune system. He believes diseases can be controlled with cleanliness, vitamins and good nutrition alone. He wrote that people should take full control of their health and that germs are only dangerous to people who have poor nutrition, poor health and stress. Good health does help prevent disease, and helps people recover. But not all illness is just a person's own fault.
Many healthy people became very sick or died from COVID and now Measles and other infections.

His beliefs are the basis of the Make America Healthy Again plan. Because he is so sure he is right, he as cut billions of dollars from medical research. He has ordered CDC staff not to test for bird flu and not to speak to anyone about it.

AND GOD SAYS...

So whether you eat or drink or whatever you do, do it all for the glory of God. (I Corinthians 10:31, Colossians 3:24)

I was really surprised to learn that after 55 years of marriage to his wife, Janet, Phillip Yancy, a very famous and respected Christian author and speaker, confessed to his wife and to Christianity Today that he had been having a extramarital affair for eight years. What a blow to everyone— his wife, his associates, his readers, anyone who knew him or about him.

Naturally the press is going wild. One can read page after page of news articles, editorials, critics, or advice on the internet about his event. Better minds than mine have written expressing their thoughts and judgements on this event and what should be done about it.

However, after reading many of the articles, I am struck with one thought that I have not as yet read. I have read articles revealing the facts and the responses the family has made. Then I have read of the judgments made, of the sympathies given, of the advice given Janet, etc. I have also read of those attempting to sympathically sort out the real issues. But in all of these, I have noticed a missing thought— "How do we glorify God the most in all of this?"

I do not mean that this it is not implied in the articles, but I don't really see it addressed as the main focus or the major concern.

The Bible tells us that "the serpent was more subtil (sic) than any other beast . . ." (Genesis 3:1 KJV). That means he is crafty, able to act "so slight[ly] as to be difficult to detect or describe; elusive" (Online dictionary). That means he is able to subtlety direct our thinking away from God-centered thoughts to self-centered thoughts. He subtlety influences our thoughts so that we focus on the secondary issues. We begin focusing on our rights (like not being betrayed by a cheating husband) or our freedoms (like freedom to divorce in case of adultery) rather than how best to serve Jesus Christ (Colossians 3:24) and love the way he did (Ephesians 5:1). It's not just about doing good things, legal things. It is about doing the best things no matter what the cost is to us to glorify god and his son, Jesus Christ (Revelations 12:11).
