AND GOD SAYS . . .

The world was not worthy of them. Hebrews 11:38.

"There is an old story told in Rome of a fifth-century monk named Telemachus, whose name has been written in the annals of Roman history." (The Last of the Martyrs of the Coliseum by John Paul Sonnen).

In 404 AD, two gladiators were about to fight for their lives. Suddenly, Telemachus ran out into the arena shouting, "Stop this barbarous slaughter! Stop in the name of Jesus Christ!"

The spectators were so enraged by his objecting to and interfering with their morbid pleasure that they stoned him to death. But the Lord used his stand and untimely death to bring an end to the centuries-old contest.

I wonder, might God use Charlie Kirk's untimely death in a similar way to bring about needed change. The organization that he founded, "Turning Point USA" is providentially named. He was so excited in his daily posts about the exponential growth in attendance of young people at his rallies. He declared that we "were in an ALL-OUT fight for national SURVIVAL" He then listed some of the major issues facing our nation, things like; being labeled as domestic terrorists, open borders, corrupted justice, compromised locker rooms, drag shows in schools, etc.

Then he declared, "God Almighty stepped in."
But, he warned, "Because we are winning . . . doesn't mean we've won.
So the call to continue the siege against the corruption in our nation must be heeded.

But I must make one clarification. The real battle is not about making America great again, while that is significant. The real battle is not political, it is spiritual; it is not about freedom to live as we like, it is about freedom in our souls; it is not about this life, it is about where we will spend eternity; it is not about peace with our neighbor but about peace with God, today and for eternity.

May this truly be a Turning Point for people everywhere to put their faith in God through Jesus Christ so we can truly be overcomers.

BARN OWL

THE SCIENTIFIC PROCESS - Part 1: Washing Hands

The Trump administration doesn't like using SCIENCE to make decisions about health, weather or environment. They only want science to prove what they believe. Unfortunately for them, that is not how science works.

In science, we don't start with what we want to believe or prove. In true scientific method, you must start with a question based on something you have observed. Then you come up with an idea (a hypothesis) that explains why this happens. Then you design a test to prove your hypothesis to be right or wrong.
Here's a true story of how that can work.

In 1846, Ignaz Semmelweis was a young doctor in charge of a maternity ward in a hospital in Vienna, Austria. He was puzzled why mothers who came to give birth were dying of "childbed fever"- but only when they were delivered by the medical students – not in the ward where the midwives worked. Women were so afraid to have doctors deliver their babies that they begged for care from the midwives or they delivered on the street.

"Scientific method" was new for doctors. Semmelweise wanted to try it. He tested different ideas. He tested for overcrowding. He tested for heat and cold. He tested to see if the priests and their incense caused the deaths. Nothing helped. Then a doctor friend died of the same fever after cutting his hand during an autopsy (an exam of a dead body). Semmelweis wondered if something from the dead bodies was passed to the mothers from the doctors. His students often went directly from the autopsies on dead mothers straight to delivering babies. Could particles from the dead, or their odor, or their "essence" carry disease? To test the idea, he ordered his students to dip their hands in a chloride solution to clear the odor when leaving the autopsy room.

Right away, the death rate from childbed fever dropped almost to zero.
Semmelweis had no idea that germs existed. The discovery of germs did not happen until 1870. But the proof showed that washing hands prevented disease even if Semmelweis didn't know why.
He asked a question: could washing hands stop disease?
He tested it and got his answer.

Sadly, Semmelweis' proof was rejected by the medical establishment. Doctors were upset by the idea that they could actually pass a disease to a patient. But the proof was there. It took the work of many doctors and nurses many years to make hand washing common practice.

When people in power ignore proof about vaccines or climate change, they are choosing what they want to believe, not what is really true.

Clark County Humane Society's Pet of the Week

"MAX"

Max is the CCHS Pet of the Week!

Max and his sister Ruby came to CCHS as their previous family had an accidental litter and just couldn't find homes for the last two puppies. They are a mix of Golden Retriever and Hound and were born on 7/5/25. Max is a handsome boy with a short-haired brown and tan coat with some white highlights and cute wrinkles on his face. He currently weighs 15.6# and has now been neutered, vaccinated, microchipped, and treated for parasites, so he's all ready to be adopted. Having come from a nice home, both Ruby and Max have happy, friendly personalities. They are always delighted to greet people and are ready to share great times. Either will make a great addition to their new family. With any puppy, training and socialization are incredibly important to the success of the pup.

Save the Date! The 3rd Annual Clark County Community, Crafts and Causes' Craft Fair will be held on Saturday, October 4th, from 9 AM - 3 PM at the Clark County Fairgrounds in Neillsville. There will be over 50 vendors, a food drive for the local food pantry, and food sales by the American Legion Post 73. There's also an amazing raffle with 100% of proceeds going to help the animals at CCHS! Plus, it's just a really fun time for all! Please come join us and support really great causes!
