AND GOD SAYS . . .

I am becoming increasingly troubled by what is happening to the "church" in America. George Barna, an experienced market researcher, has found that there is really little difference between how those who do not believe in Jesus Christ live their lives and those who profess to believe in Him. The only exceptions are that those who believe go to church, read their Bibles, and pray more. Other than that there is little distinction.

Several Scripture passages come to mind, but let me just quote two of them. The first is Romans 12:2, "Do not conform any longer to the pattern [culture] of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind." The second is 2 Corinthians 6:14-15, "For what do righteousness and wickedness have in common? Or what fellowship can light have with darkness? What harmony is there between Christ and Belial [Satan]."

I do not fault the church for its desire and zeal in wanting to share the truth of Jesus Christ with people who do not believe in Him. It is to be commended in this. But in its zeal, is it possible that it has become blinded to that fact that culture reflects the beliefs of the people? As a result, the church, in its zeal to become "all things to all people" so that it might win some, may have unwittingly embraced a culture that reflects and is driven by the culture of darkness. It has embraced its vocabulary, its music, its entertainment, and more, all in the name of Jesus in the attempt to relate to unbelievers so that they will come to see the love of Christ. However in doing so, it seems to me, the church just may have sacrificed its righteousness before God as well as its distinctive message to the people, thus actually undermining its own integrity and ability to reach the very people it is trying to reach. It seems to produce a lot of enthusiasm, but not many really changed lives, as George Barna found in his research.

Maybe, just maybe, the church needs to develop its outreach methods based on the Bible rather than the prevailing culture. And maybe we need to get back to the basics and talk about sin being the root problem of mankind, rather than trying to make people feel good in their sin. What do you think?
